UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

March 23, 1962

SECRETARY'S MEMORANDUM NO. 1496

The National Agricultural Library

The Organic Act of 1862, establishing the Department of Agriculture, sets forth a basic mission "to acquire and diffuse among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with agriculture in the most general and comprehensive sense of the word," and places upon the Department the duty of acquiring and preserving all information concerning agriculture.

Beginning with the one thousand volumes transferred from the Patent Office in 1862, the library collection has grown to over one million volumes during this one hundred years. Today the Library of the Department of Agriculture is, next to the Library of Congress, the largest Government library in existence. The information contained in the collection is disseminated through bibliographies, loans, photocopies and reference services to agricultural colleges and universities, research institutions, Government agencies, agricultural associations, industry, individual scientists, farmers and ranchers, and the general public in the United States and in every part of the world.

From the date of its inception the Library of the Department of Agriculture has served as a national library, and is generally considered today as the national agricultural library. It is appropriate and fitting, therefore, as we observe the centennial of the founding of the Department, that the national scope of its collection and services be recognized in its name.

Accordingly, the Library of the Department of Agriculture is hereby designated, and shall be known as, the National Agricultural Library.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF AGRICULTURE

Vol. 26 April 1962 No. 4

The Bibliography of Agriculture is an index to the literature of agriculture and the allied sciences received in the Library of the United States Department of Agriculture. Publications from any country are indexed, provided they are in one of the languages of western Europe or in Russian, or have summaries or abstracts in one of those languages.

Literature from the United States and Canada received more than six months after publication (one year for literature received from other countries) is generally not indexed. Exceptions are made for important scientific publications.

Indexing of articles on the processing of agricultural products is limited to those on primary processing.

Unsigned articles and those signed with pseudonyms or initials, editorials, letters to the editor, and columns appearing regularly, are omitted.

FORMAT

The Bibliography is a classified arrangement of references under the following subjects:

Plant Science
Soils and Fertilizers
Forestry

Food and Human Nutrition
Miscellaneous

The classified section is followed by the listing of:

New Periodicals and Serials
Translations
USDA Publications
State Agricultural Experiment Station Publications
State Agricultural Extension Service Publications
Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN (FAO) Publications

The last section of each monthly issue, except November, is an author index for that issue.
